

SAYS DAIRYMEN NEED PROTECTION FROM THE PUBLIC

Milk Producer Declares One of Largest Evils is in Condition of Receptacles as Returned by Many Users; The Dairy Side.

H. E. Rohlf, well known Osborn dairyman, was in the city yesterday. Incidentally Mr. Rohlf had a few things to say for the dairymen in connection with the recent milk discussion. What he did have to remark was put forth in a businesslike way, pleasantly, but strongly.

"I believe in milk tests and in compelling dealers to come up to a right standard," he said. "I believe all milk dealers who are otherwise entitled to consideration, straight men, will agree with me, for none know better than do the dairymen just how bad a thing had milk is. You can only know through the experience you get in handling large quantities. There is nothing cleaner or better under right conditions, and there is nothing dirtier under wrong conditions."

"In the recent discussion the attack was all on the milk dealers. There are two sides to everything, and we are no exception in this case. The milk I am turning out up to the required standard in butter fats, in fact was above the standard, but suffered as did everybody else's from some impurities. Taking up the points one at a time, I will say that it costs a lot to attain the standard in butter fats in this section. We do not water our milk, nor skim it, but still we have trouble in bringing it up in richness. The reason is that we have little or no green feed, comparatively speaking. It is not attainable along with the shade and running water which are essential along with grain feed to produce milk at its best. We are obliged by conditions here to feed too much dry stuff. And the dry feed costs very high. It runs expenses up without giving proportionate returns in either quantity of milk or quality. If we could turn out on grass and running water we could get returns far ahead of those from our dry feed and at far less expense."

"Now, I am going to touch briefly on the subject of impurities in milk. I want to say that I believe the milk dealers will continue to suffer under a great injustice until they compel the passage of a law which will provide a severe penalty for persons who do not take proper care of milk bottles and cans before returning them to the dairymen. Therein lies our urgent source of trouble in milk impurities. Also therein lies the greatest danger to the public from the spread of disease through milk. At the dairies we exercise the greatest care in cleaning cows before milking, in keeping milk clean until it is put in the jars and cans and sealed, but we cannot always overcome the carelessness of the public. I have seen cans and jars, of my own and of other dairymen, put out to go back to the dairymen which were not only filthy, but which actually contained animal life, even with masts working in the decayed fifth—and all because a careless, ignorant housekeeper, servant or attendant in some public place had not washed the bottle or can after emptying it. This is really a criminal offense. It should be made punishable by a severe fine and on second offense the offender should also receive a jail sentence. In other words the consumer should be regulated as well as the producer."

"Every bottle and can taken back to the dairy is of course thoroughly scalded and otherwise cleaned. But from the filthy ones we do not always get everything injurious. It is a question. Of course we try to keep the bottles of filthy customers separated from those of dirty customers, but in handling the day's business it is not altogether possible. We simply have to do the best we can. The law should help us as well as the public. As to immediate remedy for the local situation, I do not see how it is going to be brought about in the full measure that the public would like unless the price is raised for milk. Should the milk dealers get together and watch the output of each other as to quality, and promptly prosecute any member falling below the standard, and charge a higher price for their milk, one that would justify them in using more feed, everybody might be satisfied, provided the health authorities also protect us to the extent of seeing that clean receptacles are returned to us and that if they are not clean we can secure punishment of the offenders."

Among others who heard the argument of Rohlf was Wh. Harrison, the well known tailor. "I took special note of the children of Bisbee in the crowds on the Fourth of July," remarked that gentleman, "and it also occurred to me to notice the fine records made by the young folks in the athletic sports. Now let me tell you that I have seen lots of children in many communities, but if there was ever a healthier looking lot of children, with more go-asup and go in them, than there is in Bisbee, I will have to be shown. And it is of recent that without good milk you cannot have healthy children."

ENTERTAINMENT WAS MUCH OF SUCCESS

The entertainment given by the social work committee of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday night was such a splendid success that the committee feel justified in arranging with the General Film Co., of Los Angeles for a continuance of their service throughout the entire month of July. There was a splendid and appreciative audience which filled the hall which indicated that entertainments arranged for members and their families met the approval of the community.

It is safe to say that if a large number of people come out these warm nights there will be a much greater attendance throughout the fall and winter months.

The pictures shown are first class in every way, with well chosen subjects which interest and entertain. The special feature of last night's program was the public demonstration of mysterious ability given by Prof. Pondexter, a high caste Hindu. He surely amazed the most skeptical. A man full of humor, musical talent and pleasing personality, Pondexter at once had his audience at attention and held that attention for 45 minutes. The constant applause proved the appreciation of the audience.

R. C. Cluff, a recent arrival from Ireland entertained with a vocal solo. Peanuts and lemonade in abundance were served and everyone had a good time. Prof. Pondexter has consented to appear next Saturday and is willing to prove to any doubters that he is just what he represents himself to be—one of the foremost psychologists of the country.

There will be other splendid features which will be well worth hearing together with refreshments and motion pictures.

Don't forget that the purpose of these programs are intended for the benefit of members, their families or sweethearts all of whom will be admitted free. All others will pay a nominal fee of 10c for an entertainment worth 50c.

VERA CRUZ LANDING AT ROYAL TONIGHT

At the Royal Theatre there will be occasion for patriotic outbursts tonight, and they will doubtless be heard from the audiences as going to see the landing of the U. S. forces at Vera Cruz.

Also there will be views taken by the moving picture machine while bullets whizzed past men dropped. There were soldiers caught caught by the machine in action and there were blue jackets and marines caught in action picking off the snipers.

With these there were caught many other views connected with the landing of U. S. forces on Mexican soil and the taking of the Mexican city. It is a historical, historic picture. It is a picture that puts you right in Vera Cruz in the hot hours of a few months ago, when the country was white hot with the excitement of the hour and every pulse beat to the tune of war.

Don't miss the landing in Vera Cruz at the Royal tonight. It will be a matter of regret to you if you don't go, for you are going to hear everybody else praising the picture, and wish that you had been there. Beside the Vera Cruz pictures there are several other strong numbers.

OBSCENITY IS UNDER STRICT BAN; MUST BE STOPPED IN STREETS

Arrests Yesterday But a Fore-runner of General Practice That Has Been Determined Upon; Represented Quick Job.

Peter Hoyle and James Perriem used vile obscenity in front of the Central Pharmacy yesterday afternoon as ladies were passing. The remarks were between the men and not addressed to the women, but they were far from such as women should hear.

Mayor Adams across the street heard about the incident almost at the time of its happening. He turned in a call for an officer and in less than two minutes after commission of their offense, the two men were before Police Judge Walter Thomas. They pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each.

The moral of it all is that the mayor, the police judge and the police department are determined that the habit of using obscene language on the streets is going to stop. They say there will be no half way measures in the matter and that the incident of yesterday was a mild opener. Fines in future will be heavier with each arrest for similar offense.

Use of obscenity by men on the streets, particularly in Brewery Gulch, grows from no particular viciousness but is more a matter of carelessness which has been cultivated by too much indifference. The officials believe that but a few lessons, sufficient to establish the determination to break up the habit, will be sufficient to put an end to the nuisance, and they are out in dead earnest to end it. Those who have fallen into the habit of the use of obscenity regardless of passing traffic will save themselves money and humiliation by changing their conduct.

TWO BIG FEATURES AT ORPHEUM TONIGHT

Hundreds of people are looking forward to the Mutual Weekly at the Orpheum this afternoon and this evening. This weekly feature has come in a short time to be a very popular one with the Bisbee public, which appreciates the news in pictures. The Orpheum management has realized this better than all others and with its two new features each week, the Mutual on Wednesday nights and the Palace on Thursday nights, is giving a splendid and an appreciated service. Besides the Mutual Weekly tonight there is a great two-part drama, a wonderful story, thrillingly told and splendidly staged—the "The Third Dime." It carries heart interest in the highest and is a picture that none may see without feeling better therefor. That is what the New York World says about it and it commends it to all. Mile. La Mode is a beauty comedy on the bill that is particularly highly spoken of in current criticisms of moving pictures.

STUBBORN CONTEST IN THREE R MINE CASE, PATAGONIA

Bisbee Attorney Asks New Trial Following Decision in Favor of Henerys; If Refused, Appeal Will Be Taken; Long Ligation.

City Attorney E. J. Flanagan secured a vacation from his duties from the council meeting last night and will leave to try for Oakland and San Francisco, Cal., where he will spend several weeks. Arduous work in recent months in connection with his law practice and his office as city attorney has held on the health of Mr. Flanagan and the vacation he is taking is by way of warding off a threatened illness.

The firm of Williams & Flanagan has recently been engaged in one of the biggest actions in mining litigation heard in the state in some years. This litigation has had to do with the claims of Frank and Ben Henerys, one-third of payments on bond, and lease on the "Three R's mine," at Patagonia. Col. A. B. Richardson, owner of the property, has contested the claim of the Henerys.

In the hearing at Nogales the testimony, cross examinations and arguments extended over a period of several weeks. John E. Williams represented the Bisbee law firm in the contests of Col. Richardson and conducted the case in association with Frank Herford of Tucson. The decision awarded the Henerys their claim, amounting to one-third of the payment that has been made on the property, some $50,000. There remains due a balance of more than $200,000 in which they also claim interest.

A new trial has been asked at No. 1 of the superior court by the attorneys of Col. Richardson. It is understood that if the new trial is not granted, appeal will be taken. Both sides are determined in the contest and it promises to go to the highest courts before it ends.
